

Go on! Get Involved!

Are you thinking of running for Student Council Positions in 2010? Are you one of the next leaders of tomorrow?

There are opportunities in 2010 to become involved in the student council and there's so much to gain from becoming active at the Peninsula campus. You will meet new people, do new things, go to new places and generally get a more well rounded student experience. If you don't have the time to be available all year why not become a volunteer?

Help out every now and again, make new friends, get some experience in new things and reap the rewards. Come into the office (U building) and have a chat to one of the current representatives or go to the MONSU Peninsula website to find out more about the roles and responsibilities of officer bearers of MONSU Peninsula as well as how to run for the elections

CLUBS DAY TAKE 2.....

What a great day for MONSU Peninsula on clubs day with plenty of memberships sold for the newly formed Monash University Nursing Club (MUNC) and Monash University Midwifery Society (MUMS).

Club committee members worked hard to make the day a success and MONSU thank them for their marvelous effort. The homemade banner created by MUNC committee members looked sensational and the funky MUMS were also very popular. Students were eager to show their support and sign up went well. Parasoc, SOOT, CCM, and Alive were also there on the day to promote their interests. It was great to see the Nursing club being re-formed after years of non-existence and from a peek at the photos (back page) their first event, a 'booze cruise,' held in conjunction with the physiotherapy and midwifery was a huge success! Good luck, with your studies and enjoy club events by Matt Collett, Clubs Officer

Back to School Booze Cruise!

200 partygoers were ready and willing to venture out to Port Melbourne promenade to experience what it is to be a university student: Party! Party! Party! With sobriety being thrown out the window, it was chance for everybody to distance themselves from the rigors of academic study and truly let their hair down. The 'Back to School theme' was a chance for everybody to don his or her old school tie and pinafores, in a manner not befitting the traditional application. Hopefully, those 9.00am lectures were dutifully attended to the following morning!

Nicky's update.....

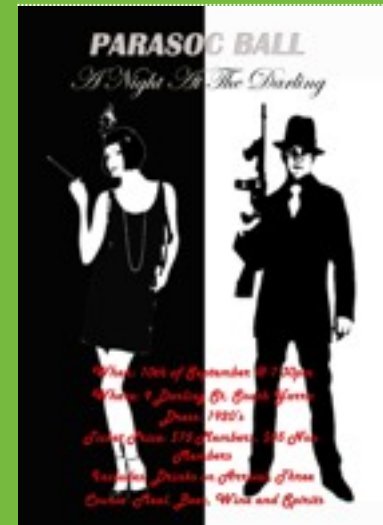

This is the month of out with the old and in with the new (in the nicest possible sense of course!) as its time to be thinking about club elections and new committees. By now you should all have received your AGM packs (registered groups get an annual report to complete) and you should be gathering information together to complete them.

The deadline for completed AGM's is 5th October. Good luck with that and may your new committees be as successful, committed and as hardworking as you guys have been this year!

A peek into the world of MONSU Peninsula clubs over the next few months.....

September 10th - Parasoc Ball

September 16th MONSU Awards ceremony (tickets available at the service desk, U building)

September 18th - Physio Ball, 7pm, Lincoln on the Toorak (tickets at service desk, U building)

Awards of Excellence

The count down to the biggest night of the year for MONSU is on! Make sure you and your committee members have got your tickets. They cost $40 from the MONSU Desk, and this includes a 2 course meal, and drinks all night.

Multi-Cultural Madness.....

Multicultural week 2009 opened with events ranging from the ridiculous to the sublime! From a group of riveting African dancers, lots of yummy food and students rolling around the floor in sumo costumes it was a very successful and fun filled week! Big thanks to OSS director Didier Tshilombo for his hard work in organising the week and providing opportunities to explore different religions and cultures from all over the world. Thanks also to Pavel, President of the MONSU Alive club who presented ideas of spirituality in different cultures.
